

Abstract

Future Directions in Data Management

Elaine Dobson

PDS has been archiving and distributing solar system exploration data for the past decade. However, the new era of smaller, more frequent missions, as well as advances in instrument sensing technologies. Have placed a new set of requirements on this 10 year old system. In addition, user expectations have evolved with the increase in internet capability. What is PDS doing to meet the challenges it faces?